Introduction

Society for Range Management, 1948-
Records, 1894-2000 (Bulk, 1940-1990)
70.2 cubic feet
Accession Number 2038

The Society for Range Management Records were donated to the American Heritage Center by various members of the Society beginning in the early 1950s forward. Where discernible, original order was maintained. The material without any apparent original order was arranged to facilitate researcher use. Preservation photocopies were made to replace deteriorated papers.

The collection should be cited as: Society for Range Management Records, Accession Number 2038, Box Number, Folder Number, American Heritage Center, University of Wyoming, Laramie, Wyoming.

History

The Society for Range Management was organized in the summer of 1947 after a 1946 meeting of interested parties, with Joseph F. Pechanec as its first president. The Society was officially formed at its first meeting on January 29-31, 1948, in Salt Lake City, Utah. Its mission was “to foster advancement in the science and art of grazing land management,” and it was established to provide an outlet and a venue for the dissemination and promotion of the principles of range management. By 2002, the Society had accumulated approximately four thousand members in forty-eight countries. To read an in-depth history of the Society, refer to the booklet, A History of the Society for Range Management, 1948-1985, contained in Series IV, Publications, of this collection.

Series Description

The Society for Range Management Records are divided into ten series:

- Series I. Administrative Files, 1940-1998. 28.8 cubic feet (64 document boxes). Arranged alphabetically by subject or document type and then chronologically. This series contains reports, correspondence, memoranda, programs, and assorted printed material documenting the management of the Society for Range Management at the national level.
- Series II. Committee Files, 1948-2000. 16.7 cubic feet (37 document boxes). Arranged alphabetically by committee title or document type and then chronologically. This series contains reports, correspondence, and miscellaneous printed material regarding the operation of the numerous committees of the Society for Range Management.
- Series III. Section Files, 1947-1994. 9 cubic feet (20 document boxes). Arranged alphabetically by section name and subject or document type, then chronologically. This series contains correspondence, reports, newsletters, and other assorted printed material relating to the establishment and operations of the Society's local sections.
- Series IV. Publications, 1948-1998. 5.4 cubic feet (12 document boxes). Arranged alphabetically by publication title, subject, or document type and then chronologically. This series contains copies of Society publications, correspondence, manuscripts, reports, and other material germane to the publishing functions of the Society for Range Management.
- Series V. Affiliated Organizations, 1946-1999. 5 cubic feet (11 document boxes). Arranged alphabetically by organization name or type, then chronologically. The series consists of material on private and government agencies associated with the Society's mission "to foster advancement in the science and art of grazing land management." It contains correspondence, reports, and miscellaneous printed material.

Series VI. Photographs, 1894-1999. 3.2 cubic feet (7 document boxes). Arranged alphabetically by subject and then chronologically. This series contains photographs of individuals important to the Society's history as well as of specific range conditions and equipment associated with range management.

Series VII. Subject Files, 1915-1989. 1.6 cubic feet (3 document boxes, 1 slim document box). Arranged alphabetically by subject. This series consists of material germane to the study of range management. It contains manuscripts, reports, and miscellaneous printed material.

Series VIII. Artifacts, 1969-1969. .5 cubic feet (1 3"x5" card file box, 1 F17 box). This series contains a plaque presented by the Society for the Frederic G. Renner Award, a Society-printed three-ring binder, and pins, badges and nametags from various Society meetings.

Series IX. Oversize Material, 1972-1992. (6 folders). This series consists of miscellaneous oversize material. Included are plans for a proposed Society office building and promotional posters for the Society's annual meetings.

Series X. Audio-Visual Material, ca.1977. (2 items). This series consists of two film strips on range management created as part of the Society's Old West Regional Commission grant of the late 1970s.

Scope and Content

The Society for Range Management records primarily consist of documentation of the institutional operations of the Society. The material is largely administrative in nature and offers the researcher a fairly complete picture of how the Society has been run from its inception in 1947 until 1990. After 1990, the documentation is less complete. All aspects of the Society's functions are covered, from its internal bookkeeping to its connection to federal legislative bodies through its Washington, DC, liaison office. The records offer a unique perspective on how a membership organization can influence what happens in college classrooms, on public land and private ranches and farms, as well as on the floors of Congress. The Society sought to gather into its membership not only legislators and university professors, but students, ranchers, and public land technicians and managers as well. As a result, there is a wide variety of material on how the Society attempted to attract these various constituencies. Range management as a science blends the principles of ecology with those of economics toward the goal of maximizing the productive capacity of the land, and these themes are treated repeatedly in the many reports and Society publications contained within the records. The Society for Range Management is an organization fiercely committed to the preservation of its own heritage, and its records reflect that. The records offer a remarkably complete picture of a membership body concerned with conservation that has coped with governmental, academic, and cultural changes over a span of more than fifty years.
